It is a lovely day. The sun is shining in the sky. I look out from the window. There are colorful flowers, green grass and tall trees. I have an idea, that I decide to walk with my pet dog. I put the dog on the chain. My dog wiggles its tail and looks at me happily. We go to the park. My little dog sniffs around. It loves all the things in the world. Then it runs across the grass very fast. I can hardly hold on it. I feel like I'm losing my grip on the rope.

In the nick of time, my superhero appears. My mom grabs the rope. At last, we have a happy walk together.

I have seen delicate and colorful lotus flowers and crimson roses, but it is sunflowers that make me fall in love. Sunflower was planted from the seeds sent to me by my classmates.

Originally, it was a small bud, like a child with open arms embracing the world. However, it grew up day by day, but it didn't bloom!

Just when I was ready to give up, it happened, and then I really realized the unpredictable, mysterious and strange beauty of the moment.

It was a warm morning. The sunflower seemed to want to deny my psychology of giving up and release its nutrition for a year - flowering, which made everyone look at it with new eyes. This new thing that never happened immediately attracted the attention of the whole family. We patiently and carefully observed the every move of the sunflower. We saw that the sunflower had subtle changes one after another with the passage of time. Gradually, the sunflower grew from yellow flowers and bones, soft as silk made of gold, which can be described as "The first wonder in the world!"

After a while, the petals slowly opened like a tight cup made of gold. From the top, it seemed as if there was a thin mist floating inside. It was as hazy as a fairyland. At this time, the petals opened more and more, exposing the small "belly", with unique style and sending out bursts of warm breath at the same time.

Ah! This sunflower is really beautiful!

Which is better, study at home or study in after-school classes?

These days, most middle school students spend time taking many after-school classes. I think studying at home is better for us.

We can spend more time on reading, we can read our favorite books with parents. And we can save money. We also can relax ourselves. We can watch TV, play sports and write letters. We can talk with parents and go for a walk together. We can do our homework by ourselves.

So, I think studying at home is better for us.

I have a cat which is quiet and a little shy. He has big eyes, cute ears and short legs. Besides, his fur is white and soft. When I touch him, he will lie down and close his eyes to enjoy it. He is always my friend. When I was sad, he made the sound "Meow~" to me and jumped on my knees. He used his fluffy leg to touch my face. It was just like the wind blew on me.

This is the story between my cat and me. I love my cat.

My Dad is the Bravest Man

All dads in the world are Supermen, and my dad is of no exception.

When he was six, he climbed to two mountains to get his grandpa's home on foot, in order to eat braised pork. He jumped from the riverbank several meters down into the stream, in order to avoid grandpa's scolding. But when he was 17 years old, his father suddenly got ill. He shouldered the burden of his family without hesitation. Therefore, he had to leave school to support his family. Soon he stepped on the northwest train.

In the scorching sun, his skin was tanned; in the biting wind, his body was shivering with cold. Even after working 12 hours a day, he still did not give up his study and stayed up late to study by himself. Two years later, my father entered the University. He studied hard and worked hard as well. He used to be a university teacher, a factory manager, and finally set up a construction company. His high-rises buildings were built and his dreams came true.

Isn't he a fearless fighter to his life?
