February 1st is the first day of the first lunar month, which is also the traditional Chinese Spring Festival. This year, our family went to Ninghai, our home town, to celebrate the Spring Festival. This is a happy Spring Festival. Every family hung lanterns and pasted window paper cuts. I put on the new clothes that my mother bought for me. We had a big New Year's Eve dinner. Later, we sat on the sofa and were going to watch the wonderful Spring Festival Gala. In the Spring Festival Gala, there are thousands of people from all around China. But at eleven o'clock, I couldn't help taking a nap. When it was almost twelve o'clock, grandma and I woke up. We ate dumplings and welcomed the new year together.

"The new year's bell will ring soon! The new year is coming! Yeah! Happy New Year!" we said.

When the New Year's show was over, our whole family went out to set off fireworks. The fireworks are so colourful.

It also means a perfect year.

Tired Shopping Experience

唐梓栋(证号 2204771)

Yesterday was the thirtieth of January. It's Chinese New Year's Eve. My mother, my cousin, sister Alice and I were going to the shop. Alice wanted to buy a new dress for the New Year holiday. We decided to go to a big clothes shop. There were many beautiful clothes.

Alice looked around and said: "I like three dresses but I don't know which dress is great on me."

"Why not try them on?" the salesman said.

It was a really good idea!

"This pink dress is lovely but it's too small." Alice said.

"What about this yellow one?"

"I am afraid this yellow one is too small for me as well. It looks smaller than the pink one. Can you show me that blue one? But it must be my size." Alice was a little sad.

The salesman said that the blue dress was the largest in the shop. There was no choice, and Alice tried it on and was surprised that it was perfect.
